Friday last his Majesty's Pocket-Boat the Eagle, Captain William Nicholls, arrived here in eight Weeks from Falmouth, by whom we have received the following ADVICES, viz.

LONDON, DECEMBER 1.

THE account of our ships being stopped in Spain, in an extract of a letter from Dartmouth, is confirmed by a letter sent from Cadiz to a merchant in Lime-street, which brings advice that all the English ships in that port have been stopped. And that Captain Cheeseman, of the True-Briton, arrived at Poole from Cadiz, confirms the same; and adds, that the Spaniards are pulling down all the houses near and at the front of the Mole, where they are very assiduous in erecting batteries, and fortifying the place.

Yesterday the insurance on merchant ships at Lloyd's, was advanced from four to ten per cent. on outward bound West-Indiamen.

Upwards of fifty merchant ships are now waiting in the river outward bound, to receive letters of marque, in case of war being declared, having on board guns and men sufficient both for offence and defence.

We have advice from Guernsey, that all the French ports in the channel now swarm with ships intended to act as privateers, with Spanish commissions, in case of a war between the courts of London and Madrid.

On Wednesday 40,000 seamen were voted for the service of the year 1771, 30,000 of which, we are informed, are to be registered. The expence of 40,000 seamen for the first year only, will amount to two millions.

James Grenville, Jun. Esq; is elected member for the town of Buckingham, in the room of the Hon. George Grenville, Esq; deceased; and yesterday he took the oaths and his seat in the house of commons.

Col. Barre, in company on Thursday, said, that he recollected to have formerly read an anecdote, in which a patriotic nobleman told the Spanish monarch that he had but two enemies.---- "Who are they?" said the King.---"The world is one, (replied the honest informer) and your Majesty's minister the other." And I cannot help thinking, continued the Colonel, that our good K--- (God bless him!) is somewhat in the same situation. ---This humorous remark caused an universal uproar of applause; and the Colonel was some time before he could proceed.

Last Wednesday Lord Weymouth declared publicly, that at present there would be no war with Spain, as every thing would be settled in an amicable manner, and to the satisfaction of all parties; on which Lord Chatham replied, that he could give no credit to his assertion, for that he was well assured the Spaniards had no intention at present of accommodating matters with the British court upon honourable terms.

Thursday a motion was made by Mr. D-----l, in the lower room of the Robinhood, to lay before the house copies of all intelligence received of the state of the Spanish land and sea forces in the Spanish West-Indies, since the first of June, 1769, to September last inclusive, which passed in the negative, 94 against 43.

Wednesday a motion was made in the same place, for examining at the bar the captain who first brought the intelligence relating to the capture of Falkland's-islands, which passed in the negative, 51 against 26.

Orders are issued to augment the land forces; each regiment of dragoons are to complete their several troops to the full complement of 60 men each troop; an additional troop, consisting of 60 private men (besides officers) are to be added to each regiment; the officers to be taken from the half-pay list. The same measures are observed in regard to the foot; the companies are to be augmented to 60 men each, and an additional company to each regiment.

A letter from Dublin, dated Nov. 14, says, "On Thursday the Lord Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, Sheriffs, and Common-Council, with City Officers, went in procession from the Tholsel to the Castle to wait on his Excellency Lord Townshend with their address, complaining of the decay of trade, and other affairs to be transmitted to his Majesty.

The city is now entirely free from the terrors of press-gangs, the present Lord-Mayor not having backed the warrants.

On Thursday night a fire broke out at Mr. Hamoir's, (belonging to Covent-Garden Theatre) in Oxendon-street, near Leicester-square, which destroyed the said house, with all the furniture, and greatly damaged a cabinet-marker's, a private house, and Oxendon chapel, all adjoining.

The River Thames is so high, in consequence of the late rains, at Richmond, Isleworth, Brentford, &c. that the road under Richmond-garden-wall is impassable, and all the meadows near the river side overflowed.

Extract of a letter from Brussels, November 23.

"Advices, on which we can depend, assure us, that the court of Spain consents to avacuate the Falkland's-islands, and to consider them as neutral, but refuses even the bare restitution; and that this affair will not be the object of a negotiation, till England shall have disarmed; lastly, that the court of Madrid will by no means combine this affair with that of the Manilla ransom, nor make good to England the expences of her armaments."

In former reigns, the temper of the people determined the character of the parliament. Of late years it has been quite the reverse. To despise the instructions of constituents is one step to acquire an emancipation from all attention to their immediate inclination; to act in direct opposition to their interest, is in consequence of that diabolical doctrine of the necessity of the parliament's corrupt dependance upon the crown.

Before a minister is resolved upon subduing all things at home, he should be sure that all is safe abroad. He that cannot keep a good lookout, should not be trusted at the helm of the smallest vessel, much less of such a first-rate as the Britannia.

When a court lays hold of a plausible pretence of objecting a spirit of faction to those in the opposition, the strength of the opposition is generally broken, because the natural union is dissolved. This is not the case now, because the country party is authorised by the voice of the country.

A correspondent observes, that two circumstances are deducible from the election of a certain charges des affairs to succeed Lord Grantham in parliament: First, that the ministry are either so assured of their majority as not to need his voice; or, 2dly, that they are so certain of a Spanish war as to expect him immediately in this kingdom.

We hear Lord George Lenox was not above a week returned from Minorca with his family, when he was ordered back to his reciment in that island: A circumstance strongly corroborative of the speedy commencement of hostilities.

It is now generally believed that his Royal Highness the Duke of Gloucester will soon be appointed to the command of the army.

The present premier is so secret in his proceedings, that it eludes all the cunning of his adversaries to know his intentions.

Thursday night a council was held at Carlton-house, at which his Majesty, the Dukes of Gloucester and Cumberland, with the Lords North and Hillsborough, &c. were present.

Bets of 100 to 20, are laid that Lord North resigns before the end of next week.

A report prevails that Lord Chatham will shortly be created a Duke.

It is assured Sir Charles Saunders is to have the command of the West-India squadron, which is to be augmented to twenty sail of the line.

Orders are given to take up six large vessels as transports, to carry troops immediately to Jamaica.

Notice has been given to the merchantmen trading to the West Indies, not to proceed without a convoy, which will be ready to sail the latter end of this month.

By letters from several parts of the country we are informed that the waters are greatly abated, and in many places returned within their proper channel.

A correspondent informs us, that the late inundation has laid all his grace the Duke of Bedford's estate, the fine Lordship of Thorney, containing above 17,000 acres of land, between six and seven feet under water. The waters came with such rapidity, and so unexpected, that many people with great difficulty saved the lives of themselves and families. A large quantity of stock perished by this unhappy event, and many families are reduced to the greatest distress imaginable, much more so than in the great inundations in the beginning of the years 1764 and 1766, because they enjoyed the fodder for their cattle for near ten weeks longer.

A question has lately been proposed to three eminent mathematicians, how often a man ought to lose when there are but two to one against him. The wise men smiled and shook their heads at the propofer. I know, said he, you imagine twice out of three times; but you are mistaken, gentlemen; and if you'll go to St. S--------- chapel, you will find the minister----of the chapel (for they game every day now) laying two to one upon every bet that is proposed, and he wins nine hundred and ninety times out of a thousand. It's impossible, replied the three calculators; by the great Euclid it's impossible. That may be, said the other, but it's true. Then there is foul play; take our words for it, continued all three, there is certainly foul play. The propofer went away better satisfied than they who proposed queries to W---d---n, G---n and D---n---ng.

Extract of a letter from Portsmouth, November 30.

"The Yarmouth and Centaur men of war, are ordered to carry the troops from Ireland to Gibraltar, in the room of the Achilles and Arrogant. We expect four ships of the line to be commissioned here every day, they being ready."

DECEMBER 8. The three battalions which were appointed to embark from France to relieve the troops in Corfica, were suddenly remanded before they embarked, and ordered into garrison.

The many reports of the Spanish ambassador's preparing to leave this court, even to the packing up of his baggage, we can assure the public, are in every respect premature. What probably gave rise to such reports was, his excellency's brother, Don John, who lives with him, has been lately appointed ambassador to Naples, and great preparations have been making for his departure.

A letter from Calais says, "The secretary of our admiralty, and his clerks, are sent to prison for some high misdemeanors, by order of the Duke de Penthievre, high admiral of France."

We are informed, that the expences for the ordinary of the navy for the ensuing year, on account of its increase, will amount to 378,752l. including half pay to sea and marine officers.

Married] At Edinburgh, December 1. Lieutenant-Colonel Montgomery, to Miss Gray, only daughter of the late Mr. Gray, of Newlands.

The motion made by Serjeant G-----n in the L-----r A----y on Thursday was, "That a committee be appointed to enquire into the administration of criminal justice, and the proceedings of the judges in Westminster-Hall, particularly in cases relating to the Liberty of the Press, and the constitutional power and duty of juries." The Serjeant was seconded by Aldermen Oliver and Townsend, who pointed out by name a certain judge, president of one of the courts of justice, as the grand culprit. The speakers in behalf of the motion were Mr. Burke, Sir Joseph Mawbey, (who complained greatly of Baron S----'s conduct in trying the Serjeant at the summer assizes at Guildford) Mr. Sawbridge, Mr. Cornwall, Mr. Dunning, Mr. Wedderburne, Col. Barré, L. G. Germaine, and Sir G. Savile. Speakers against the motion: Mr. Onslow, (who defended the conduct of Baron S---, at Guildford) Lord Clare, C. Fox, the Attorney-General, Sir Gilbert Elliot, Mr. Forrester, and the Solicitor-General. Seventy-six of the company were for the enquiry, and 184 against it.---A smart altercation happened towards the close of the debates between Col. Onslow and Serjeant Glynn, who were called to order.

Mr. D----g spoke for two hours and upwards, on the motion on Thursday night in the L----- H-----.

The following estimates have been laid before an August House:

An estimate of the charge of the guards, garrisons, and other his Majesty's land forces in Great-Britain, from December 25, 1770, to December 24, 1771, inclusive of both days.

An estimate of his Majesty's forces in the plantations of Africa, including those in garrison at Minorca and Gibraltar, for one year, ending December 24, 1771.

An estimate of the charge of the difference of pay between the British and Irish establishments of five battalions and four companies of foot, serving in the Isle of Man, at Gibraltar, Minorca, and the ceded islands, for one year, ending December 24, 1771.

An estimate of the charge of an augmentation proposed to be made to his Majesty's land forces for the service of 1771.

An estimate of the charge of the office of ordnance for the land service, for the year 1771.

His Majesty's commissions are arrived in Dublin, appointing John Hale, Esq; to be governor of his Majesty's city and castle of Limerick, in the room of John, Duke of Argyll, deceased. And George Preston, Esq; to be Colonel of the 17th regiment of dragoons, in the room of John Hale, Esq.

The merchants of Saville were early so suspicious of a rupture with Great-Britain, that they gathered all their fruit so green, that it is feared the orange fanciers will be disappointed this year in the flavour of their favourite potation.

It is confidently said, that the parliament of Ireland will be convened for the dispatch of business early in the month of January.

A list of all the commissioned officers of militia in Great-Britain, is ordered to be laid before a great assembly.

It is now more than ever credited, that a certain chief justice will soon retire from all public business.

And it is said the above expected retirement is in consequence of the warm attack he has lately received from the Earl of Chatham and Lord Camden.

Advices are received from Senegal, that the French still continue to erect forts on the coast of Africa, and that fresh supplies of troops arrive daily to garrison them.

It is said, that a motion is intended to be made for bringing a great magistrate to the bar of a certain house, for refusing to back the press-warrants.

The only obstacle, we are told, to the sailing of a fleet for the West-Indies is, the want of a proper commander, in which respect they pretend to be under great difficulties.

Yesterday the augmentation of the seamen was taken into consideration, when 7000 men extra were voted, besides the annual number of 17,000.

CONSTANTINOPLE, October 17. We have received advice that Hassen Bey, on the 9th inst. left the Dardanelles, and put himself at the head of 3400 troops, in order to relieve the castle of Lemnos, and after making good his landing, he marched against the besiegers, who were composed of Russians and Greeks, whom he cut to pieces, seized their cannon, and took possession of the castle. The garrison had given hostages that same day, and were to have evacuated the castle on the morrow to the besiegers. Hassen Bey has also burnt a Russian brigantine, which was at anchor. In this affair the Russians lost about 400 of their own troops, and about 2500 Greeks.

HAGUE, November 23. The envoy extraordinary from the states general at the court of Madrid, among other things in his last dispatches, sends advice that fifteen battalions of Spanish troops were marching to the sea coasts in order to embark for America, to reinforce the garrisons there that are most exposed; and that these troops were to be followed by a much greater number.

Letters from Madrid also mention, that the Earl of Bute is arrived there, and that he has been very graciously received by his Catholic Majesty.

VIENNA, November 10. By accounts from Bucharest in Wallachia, Solyman Pacha, who commands at Brailow, made so vigorous a sally in the night between the 15*th and* 16*th ult. on the Russians, and so compleatly beat the besiegers, that they were obliged to raise the siege and retire.*

MARSEILLES, November 16. The Sieur Lemaire, French Consul in the Morea, is lately arrived here, with his family from Coron, where he resided, and which he was obliged to abandon, when the Russian squadron, under Count Orlow, undertook the siege. He was accompanied in his retreat, by the French merchants settled there, who, by this means, have lost the chief of their effects, part being seized by the Mainotes, who joined the Russians, and the other by the loss of a vessel, in which they had embarked the most valuable of their effects. The French merchants established at Modon, Navarino, Patras, and other cities in the Morea, have met with the same fate.

TRIESTE, November 3. We learn from the Levant, that General Orlow is besieging Tenedos in the isle of the same name, and that the said town is on the point of capitulating. Admiral Elphinstone is still in the neighbourhood of the Dardanelles. Near Scio are two Russian vessels, which have a design of fishing up the 500,000 roubles that were lost when their admiral was burnt, but it is thought they will hardly succeed in this enterprize, on account of the great depth of the water.

FRONTIERS OF TURKEY, October 31. A resolution having been formed to drive the Russians from the posts they have taken on the Danube, in consequence thereof two considerable corps are marching towards the two flanks of the Russian army; from whence it is probable the operations of the campaign will be no less interesting during the winter, than they were last summer.

VENICE, November 9. For these thirty days past, we have had terrible weather, and the rains are not yet discontinued. On the first of this month, the waters of the sea were seven feet higher than they have been for these forty years, so that almost the whole city was overflowed by them. Even in the palace of St. Mark they were three feet and a half. Our merchants suffered great loss on the occasion, vast numbers of merchandize in the warehouses have been spoiled, and in one of them a quantity of vitriol, the dissolution of which killed all the fish that were carried there by the torrent; and since the waters have retired into their bed, a number of dead fish are seen floating in the sea, on which the dissolved vitriol has had the same effect.

FROM THE DANUBE, November 15. The Turkish garrisons of Belgrade, Orsova, and Vidin, having united, are said to have passed the Danube, in order to fall on the body of troops under General Bauer and Prince Repnin.

CADIZ, November 6. A few days ago a third convoy sailed from hence, consisting of six ships, most of which were laden with warlike stores, and had troops on board for different parts of the Spanish West-Indies. In consequence of the dispositions that are making for the defence of this place, a number of horse and foot are sent down to the neighbouring coast.

LEGHORN, November 14. Sir John Dick, the British Consul here, lately received some very important dispatches from England, which as soon as he had read, he sent circular letters to all the captains of the British ships.

ESCURIAL, November 6. Frequent councils are held here, in order to re-establish the good harmony between our court and that of London; and means, it is not doubted, will be found out to save the honour of the crown.

PETERSBOURG, November 6. A courier, dispatched by the Marquis Maruzzi from Venice, has just brought here advice of a great revolution which has happened in Egypt. Aley Bey is declared Sultan, having made himself master of that kingdom, Arabia, Mecca, and Medina, also of the port of Gedda on the Red Sea, so that he is now more considered by the Mussulmans of Asia and Africa, than the Grand Signior himself. He has written a letter to the Senate of Venice, by which he offers his friendship to the republic, and full security and protection to her merchants. This fatal blow to the Porte, will complete the consternation which reigns at Constantinople, and from which the last extremities were apprehended.

NEW-YORK, JANUARY 28.

Extract from the printed Journals of the General Assembly.

Die Veneris, 10 ho. A. M. the 18*th January,* 1771.

A Message from his Excellency the Governor, by his Secretary Capt. Foy, which being read, is in the Words following, viz.

GENTLEMEN,

SEEING by the Proceedings of your House Yesterday, That a Sum was voted for my Salary as Governor of this Province; I must acquaint you, that his Majesty has appointed me a Salary out of his Treasury, in Consequence of which, I am not at Liberty to receive it from the Assembly; therefore, I desire that the Article which relates to it, in your Resolves, may be omitted.

DUNMORE.

Fort-George, January 18, 1771.

Mr. John Lambert, of this City, who about 25 Years ago, received two Musket Balls in his Right Thigh, one of which was extracted from the Wound soon after, but the other could never be found till Monday last, when Lithotomy was performed upon him by Dr. Jones, and a Stone extracted, which weighed between four and five Ounces, and the other Ball was found to have lodged in the Bladder, and become the Nucleus of the Stone.---He is now in a very promising Way of Recovery, and it is thought the Wound in his Thigh will now be likely to heal, which had remained ulcerous ever since he received the Wound.

WILMINGTON, (North-Carolina) JANUARY 9.

Last Tuesday Morning about two o'Clock, a dreadful Fire broke out at Captain Oldfield's Store, at the South Side of the Dock: The same Moment, that discovered the Flames, shewed the Impossibility of distinguishing them. The Fire raged with its utmost Violence, until all the Houses in that Square, fifteen in Number, were totally consumed. Upon the first Alarm by the Fire-Bell, the Engine was immediately brought to the Spot and worked, but without Effect. The Inhabitants of the Town, and the People from the Vessels, that lay at the Wharfs, shewed the utmost Alacrity in endeavouring to stop the Progress of the Flames, and removing what could possibly be saved, but notwithstanding every Effort, a very great Quantity of dry Goods, Rum, Sugar, Melasses, Flaxseed, and Provision was consumed.

The Rapidity of the Flames, threatening the immediate Destruction of Mr. Burgwin's Tar-House, and of all the Wharfs, Houses and Stores below the Dock, a Number of Gentlemen exerted themselves at the utmost Risque, inciting others by their Example, manifested that they preferred the Preservation of so great a Part of the Property of others, to any Consideration of their own Safety. By this laudable Conduct, a Quantity of Naval-Stores and Lumber were removed amidst an almost suffocating Smoak, and within the scorching Heat of the Fire, which was thus prevented from further Devastation. Happily the Wind was Easterly, to this Circumstance and to the opposite House being of Brick, was in a great Measure owing the Preservation of the House and Stores of John Lyon, Esq. Had the Fire extended itself to that Part of Front-street, the whole of Dock-street, and in all Probability, the greatest Part of the Town, must have been reduced to Ashes; the Loss on this melancholy Occasion is computed at Ten Thousand Pounds Proclamation Money. Mr. Robinson lost above One Thousand Pounds, Capt. Oldfield suffered above Six Hundred Pounds. This is the second Time that he has unhappily been a considerable Sufferer in this Country by Fire.

We are desired to add, that the Schooners Two-Brothers, and Bedford, (Simmons and Benny) both of Rhode-Island, have lost all their Sails, and a great Part of their Rigging, which had been put into one of Mr. Robinson's Stores consumed by this Fire.
